Dear Jerry:

It was great to see you recently in Dallas.

As you well know, Texas will be a key state for our success this November. I am looking forward to returning this fall to assist Republican candidates. If we retain the majority in 1996, it will be the first time a Republican majority has been re-elected since 1928 -- almost seven decades ago. If we can keep the majority, we can make a real difference.

The Democrats are desperate to end the winning streak that Republicans have enjoyed the last several years. With the help of their interest-group supporters, they have already amassed gigantic resources to use against Republicans this year. The AFL-CIO alone has announced that it will spend $35 million to defeat 70 Republican members of Congress, enough to return the House of Representatives to Democratic hands and put Dick Gephardt in the speaker's chair. All told, labor unions are likely to spend more than $100 million to keep Bill Clinton in the White House and elect a Democratic Congress.

As Chairman of Campaign America, one of the largest Republican multi-candidate political action committees in the country, I am absolutely committed to preserving the Republican majority.

I look forward to seeing you on my next visit.

Sincerely,
